

High School Literary Analysis – Classic Novel

Title: To Kill a Mockingbird

Author: Harper Lee

Genre: Literary Fiction

Central Thesis: The novel uses the perspectives of childhood innocence and Southern small-town life to expose racial injustice and moral courage.

Literary Analysis:

Symbolism: The mockingbird represents innocence harmed by prejudice.

Themes: Racial inequality, empathy, integrity.

Character Analysis:

- Atticus Finch: Embodies moral responsibility and justice.

- Scout: Represents growth of understanding and ethical awareness.

Quote Analysis: “You never really understand a person... until you climb into his skin and walk around in it.”

This line emphasizes empathy as the core moral lesson.

Evaluation: A powerful critique of prejudice, strengthened by the child narrator's voice.

High School Literary Analysis – Modern Novel

Title: The Hunger Games

Author: Suzanne Collins

Genre: Dystopian Fiction

Central Thesis: The novel critiques media manipulation and socioeconomic inequality through Katniss's struggle for survival in a televised death arena.

Literary Analysis:

Motifs: Surveillance, rebellion, performance.

Themes: Power, sacrifice, exploitation.

Character Analysis:

- Katniss Everdeen: Complex, resourceful, reluctant hero.

- Peeta Mellark: Moral contrast to Katniss through empathy and communication.

World-Building: The Capitol's excess juxtaposed with District 12's poverty highlights structural injustice.

Evaluation: Collins uses action and introspection to explore moral ambiguity and resistance.

High School Literary Analysis – Shakespeare

Title: Macbeth

Author: William Shakespeare

Genre: Tragedy

Central Thesis: Macbeth demonstrates how unchecked ambition and moral corruption lead to self-destruction.

Literary Analysis:

Themes: Ambition, fate vs. free will, guilt.

Symbolism: Blood symbolizes guilt; darkness symbolizes moral decay.

Character Analysis:

- Macbeth: Transforms from heroic warrior to tyrant.

- Lady Macbeth: Catalyst of ambition, later consumed by guilt.

Quote Analysis: "Out, damned spot!" reflects psychological unraveling and the consequences of their actions.

Evaluation: A powerful exploration of human ambition and psychological torment.
