Essay Topic: Reminiscence of My Farewell Party

It is a known fact that memories are sometimes all that we have. When one is old, and you have spent your entire life, you like to reminisce about your life. One such memory is of one's farewell party. Everyone knows that even the university life is not that easy, especially if one has challenging subjects like accounting and finance. There are classes to be taken, notes and assignments to be made, and presentations to be given. So, after all this, at the end of the year, the teachers seemed to take pity on the students by allowing the juniors to organize and arrange a farewell party for the leaving class. The farewell party is a gesture of saying goodbye, a token of love and gratitude given to the departing students in the hopes that they would leave the college in high spirits with their heads held high. It is said that no one really forgets their farewell, and it was the same case with me. My friends and I used to badger our juniors from time to time, reminding them to give us an unforgettable farewell.
